BREAKOUT SESSIONS: Animals, Objects, Media, Technology,
Performance, Ecology, Ontology, Rhetoric, Affect, Materialism

This conference takes up the “nonhuman turn” that has been emerging in the arts, humanities, and social sciences over the last several decades. The nonhuman turn includes analytical and theoretical formations that diverge and disagree in many of their aims, objects, and methodologies, but they are all of a piece in taking up aspects of the nonhuman as critical to the future of 21st century studies.

Thursday, May 3 - Saturday, May 5

Curtin Hall 175

3243 North Downer Avenue, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Conference Organizing Committee: Richard Grusin (C21 Director), Mary Mullen (C21 Deputy Director), John Blum (C21 Associate Director), and Rebekah Sheldon (C21 Provost Postdoctoral Fellow).

Free and Open to the Public
